Dear Wayne:

It seems that only yesterday, we started hunting together, yet I ask my self.....where has all the time gone.

I find that I can only thank you for all you generosity and friendship through-out the years.

If there be a finer guide service, or for that matter guide, I think that the hunters of the world would be hard pressed to find him.

Again, this coming year is viewed with the antipication of once again being in the "Foggy Mountain Camps" to enjoy the pursuit of Black Bear, renewing old friendships and to spend some quiet time reflecting on how fortunate I have been, to have you as my friend.

The new people that are coming with me will, beyond a doubt, find your camp and services beyond anything that they could imagine.

My hunts have always been "awesome" to say the least, and through-out the years have allowed me to observe more than just your operation, to wit, be part of it in my own way. Of the few times that I did not see bear, or when I saw but missed, it has and always will be a high point of my life to be able to hunt with you.

I would hope that all your other hunters will feel that way.

For now, with great wishes for continued sucess and a prosperous life,

Your friend
